

The 'Wright Care' Mighty Hikers Walk • May 20th, 2023

Starting their route along the North Norfolk Coast from Cromer and finishing at Holkham Hall, a team of ten intrepid ladies will be striding out over 26.2 miles, as part of the 'Macmillan Mighty Hike' organised event!

Director and owner of Wright Care, Samantha Davis-Wright, outlines here their forthcoming challenge and seeks your support for such a valuable cause.

"As a company, it's always been important to work closely with other multi-disciplinary teams, including the many charities that support the lives and goals of our community and the individuals for whom we provide a care service. By doing so, we build links and can then use these to better support our customers and help them to maintain a high quality of life and not be limited by any conditions they may have.

It also enables us to provide compassionate care to those we support and better emotionally support those around them, especially when supporting customers with terminal conditions that may result in a need for palliative or 'end-of-life care'.

Over the past seven years, we have supported over three hundred customers in the community of Bourne and Stamford, thus becoming an extended part to so many families. We wanted to take part in an event that not only would challenge us all and be a team-building exercise, but also one that we could work really hard on, to raise vital monies for a valuable charity which is close to our heart and those we have supported. Macmillan carers often work alongside us at the end stages of a person's journey, and they do an incredible job. A sum of £264 raised could provide an individual with two days of care from a Macmillan support worker!

As a team of ten taking part in the hike, we set ourselves a target of £2,500. We have already held many fundraisers to achieve this and have worked tirelessly, alongside training for the hike, to meet this. From a live gig, organised by Fiona; a beauty night by Sammy; and a King's Coronation Bake Sale by Sarah Palmer, we have now raised over £2,700!

We would love to raise awareness for Macmillan and share our journey along the way! We have many sore legs from the training, but we are excited for the big day now.
