

“Simply exceptional”

Huge Praise for Wright Care at Home

My first encounter with Wright Care at Home was when I was facing the discharge from hospital of both of my parents who both had very different care needs but had come to the stage in life where they were no longer able to care for themselves or each other.

Wright Care at Home hadn't been established long and, to be honest, we were a bit out of our area, but Sammy Wright agreed to visit us and discuss our needs.

As I was tasked with trying to provide them with care, this in itself was a huge relief – having someone who was prepared to just come and have a chat was such a delight, but when my parents and I met her, we knew her ethos and that of her business was head and shoulders above any other care company.

I consider myself one of luckiest of people when Sammy agreed to put in place a care package for my parents.

It was like a huge weight had been lifted off my shoulders, but that was just the start. What followed was quite simply exceptional.

Carers who were passionate about their job, individuals with so much care and concern and a management structure that ensured my parents were central to everything that was provided for them, whilst I was also key to the whole support regime and kept informed of any issues Mum and Dad were having, often things they wouldn't have shared with me.

Wright Care at Home gave me back my independence, following several months of trying to do it myself, and at the same time gave my parents their lives back, free to live their lives in their own home. It was a perfect relationship between all the various parties, and I watched as my parents thrived.

Sadly, my Dad didn't enjoy the care for too long, but thanks to his carers we were alerted very quickly to health issues and were able to get him the hospital care which made his last days as comfortable as possible.

The care that then followed for my Mum was exceptional and well beyond any expectations. Wright Care at Home supported her fantastically through a very difficult time and kept me very well informed of how she was doing, at times on a daily basis, right up to her unexpected passing a year later.

I will remain eternally grateful to Sammy and the team at Wright Care at Home for all they did for my parents, and indeed for all they did for me. I couldn't have chosen better."
